FGM SENIOR BOYS WIN BRONZE AT ZONES - Parker Allen, Zane Cribbins, Nicholas Anderson and Kaiden Evans-Anderson, was able to capture Bronze at the 1A/2A Zones in Cold Lake on September 18. Nicholas also brought home the medal for the lowest score. Coach Jon Randall said the boys played well; "We only were seven strokes from first, and two strokes from second. The team we beat last year, Plamondon, was the team that won gold."

Town, County candidate forums scheduled

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point voters will have the opportunity to hear the platforms of two mayoral candidates, incumbent Parrish Tung and current deputy mayor Lorne Young, and seven town council candidates, incumbents Bernice Capjack, Debra McQuinn and Dwayne Yaremkevich, along with first-time candidates Henry Botting, Sherry Bower-Gagne, Terri Hampson and Jennifer (Flanders) Van der Hoeek, at an All-Candidates Forum on Tuesday, Oct. 3, not Wednesday, Oct. 4 as previously reported. The forum is sponsored by the Elk Point and District Chamber of Commerce and will take place at the Seniors' Recreation Centre, beginning at 7 p.m.

County of St. Paul voters will also be able to hear their candidates for reeve-at-large and council seats prior to the election, with that forum, hosted by the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for tomorrow evening, Wednesday, Sept. 27 at the St. Paul Recreation Centre, beginning at 7 p.m.

The County's field of candidates is also unchanged from last week, with incumbent Steve Upham taking on Glen Ockerman and Leo deMoissac for the reeve's chair. Locally, Dean Smith and Darrell Younghans will vie for the Division 1 council seat previously held by Ockerman, and Division 2 has three first-time candidates, Myra Bochon, Ron Heraid and Kevin Wirsta.

Eyes, ears needed, RCMP tells Rural Crime Watch

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Members from both the St. Paul and Elk Point RCMP detachments were on hand at last Thursday's Greater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch meeting in St. Paul, and gave the organization their input on ways the group can work with the RCMP to curb the rising number of break-and-enters and other incidents in the area.

Cst. Rowena Shea from the St. Paul Detachment said she talks to "a lot of people from the rural areas" who have been impacted by these crimes, and feels "the best prevention is our eyes, becoming more aware of suspicious vehicles and calling in to tell the detachment." She told the RCW she needed "something to give these people" to let them know about Rural Crime Watch and how they could get involved. In the past, she had made handouts to help residents in the Lac Santé area where crimes were prevalent to cope, she said. "People feel they're alone and are overwhelmed. Call response times are always an issue. But we're all in this together, they need to know the preventative measures."

Sgt. Terry Hyggen arrived at the Elk Point Detachment in July and "already noticed we have a very busy area, but I thrive in a fast-paced environment." Saying that he likes the idea of having a pamphlet to hand out to people who visit the detachment, he agreed that "We need eyes and ears, and calling in when you see something." With "a thousand miles of road to patrol, we can't be everywhere, but the people out there know who should be there and who shouldn't. Get a description of the vehicle and if possible, the licence number. Try to be the eyes and ears, and if everybody did this, we could get a handle on the situation."

The power of information sharing on the Internet, Sgt. Hyggen said, is "both a problem and a huge benefit. Facebook is a bone of contention (for the RCMP)." Elk Point's previous sergeant, Barry LaRocque, "is now at K Division, reviewing media policies," he noted.

Questioned regarding the ability to use security camera and other photos as evidence, Sgt. Hyggen said, "It's our job to determine if the video or pictures taken can be used. They're a good tool but not the only tool."

The recent takedown of a chop shop operation showed a need for one preventive measure. Among the items found were many that could not be identified as to ownership, Sgt. Hyggen said. (Continued on Page 3)

Flu clinic dates set on Community Health
Services calendar

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

With the arrival of autumn comes the scheduling of flu clinics by Elk Point Community Health Services. Christal Brodziak told the Elk Point Interagency Health and Wellness Committee last week that the clinics will be held October 23 and 26 at the Seniors' Recreation Centre, from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. both days.

Brodziak also said that in addition to the Wednesday clinics for infants at the health unit office, she is taking bookings for adult immunization clinics to be held on Friday mornings from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Travel immunization, however, must be obtained in St. Paul or Bonnyville.

Levina Ewasiuk reported on behalf of the Seniors' Centre, where activities now underway include whist, floor curling and morning cards and games sessions. Transportation to appointments and senior-friendly housing with garages are among the concerns seniors have expressed, she said.

Deputy Mayor Lorne Young was happy to report that the Highway 41 crosswalk is now in place, with temporary signage. No lights will be installed at the crosswalk at this time, however there is hope for those in the future. The town is working with Elk Point Agricultural Society to get a bulk water station in place to fill a huge demand in the area. Young is running for mayor in the Oct. 16 election and is encouraging everyone to get out and vote.

Margaret Modin told the committee that Elk Point's new RCMP Sergeant, Terry Hyggen, had attended the Community Advisory Policing Committee and she foresees more communication between the detachment and the public regarding situations in the future.

Terry Shankowski said Information Night attracted over 280 people and went "really well."

A seniors' bus trip to the Devonian Gardens was also a huge success, with 27 attending. Santas Anonymous will be starting soon, and she will be accepting the names of families needing the program's assistance. She reported difficulty finding volunteer drivers to take seniors to appointments in the city with the HandiBus.

A report submitted by Mayor Parrish Tung indicated that another prospective doctor has been interviewed and could be coming to Elk Point. He also urged anyone interested in becoming part of Alberta Health Services' new Seniors and Continuing Care Provincial Advisory Council to submit an application, with that deadline being Sept. 22.

Rural Crime Watch

Cst. Shea said that pawnshops "report to us, but owners don't have the serial numbers of their property written down."

Developments coming out of the meeting included agreement to collaborate on an information pamphlet that will both inform residents about Rural Crime Watch and offer helpful tips to prevent crimes, from keeping track of the aforementioned serial numbers to making sure buildings and vehicles are securely locked at all times. The group also agreed that the executive should investigate the possibility of utilizing a program that would be able to send both email messages or telephone messages to alert members about incidents and activities that they should be aware of, which would replace and improve upon the outdated fan-out system now in place.

It was also suggested that Rural Crime Watch host an open house to acquaint residents with what the group does and also what they as residents can do to increase the safety of their homes and property.

EDITORIAL

Fall is here!

By the time you read this, we will be four days into fall, and hopefully Ian Tyson's tuneful boast about Alberta, "The weather's good there in the fall," is busy coming true.

Last week's rain was no helpful to those with harvest underway, but at least our area stayed snow-free, unlike areas to the west. A return to warmer, drier weather is forecast for this week, and we're all hoping it will continue until the crops are in the bin and the bales are a wrap.

Fall is busy for almost everyone, not just the rural community, as clubs and organizations get back into their schedules of meetings, working bingos and working on new projects. The chamber of commerce is about to get busy with planning the Christmas Extravaganza, and the Canada Day Committee has already held one meeting in preparation for next July 1, believe it or not!

Parents are busy shuttling their youngsters to school sports, a phenomenon that will not be over until next June, and if they're hockey parents, it's time to start checking to see if the gear fits, as well as to go help out at the arena work bees.

Added to all this, we have municipal elections in all jurisdictions, with platforms to learn about and decisions to be made, and then there will be another round to determine the leaders of provincial political parties.

Don't we get time to just stop and breathe in fall?

RECREATION CORNER

Nine months to Canada Day!

Review Contributor

Can you believe Canada Day plans are already underway?! I know, me too!

A few committee members met last week to discuss ideas for next summer. We took some feedback we received from last year's celebration and are hoping to make July 1st a really well-rounded day.

Our theme for next year is the "Backyard Decathlon". Here's the idea: we are going to bring those fun backyard games to the Canada Day stage area and host a huge tournament. Games like bean bag toss, potato sack races, pipe ladder golf toss and more will be played. Kids, families and corporate divisions will make for a lot of fun.

Here's what we want to know: are there any games in particular you would like to see in the decathlon? Have you seen something at a country fair or in someone's backyard and thought that it would be a lot of fun? Please let us know so we can add it to our event! We've even talked about the possibilities of bringing in Axe Tossing.

We also heard you about the vendors. We are hoping to get some more vendors and food for next year. We do encourage vendors to be a part of the event; however with a holiday such as Canada Day it can be hard to secure people. So if you're a vendor, it's a great opportunity to sell to a large crowd and make some money.

We also heard you about the beer gardens! We do plan on bringing back the day beer gardens and hopefully that'll extend into the night with a dance and entertainment.

The Canada Day Committee is open to all ideas and feedback. If you would like to contribute please contact us at recreation@elkpoint.ca or 780-207-5898.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Fall Rendezvous, spill exercise. new money and stability

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF SEPT. 26 IN...

1987

With the harvest in the bins, many farmers were facing the fact that this might be their final harvest, due to economic conditions, with a survey showing that up to a third of Canadian farmers felt they could be out of business by 1990. Donations from the Legion, Lioness Club and Ukrainian Dance Club helped Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department get closer to their goal of purchasing the Jaws of Life.

1992

Close to 250 people attended the Fall Rendezvous at Fort George and Buckingham House, which featured performances by Métis dancers and musicians, Métis craftswomen at work in the trading post area of the interpretive centre and a concession selling bannock burgers and Indian tacos. The Terry Fox run doubled the previous year's participation, with 34 runners, walkers and cyclists, three dogs and one teddy bear taking part to raise close to $2,500, with Peggy Maas bringing in $925.50 of that total.

1997

An oil spill exercise on the North Saskatchewan River gave close to 200 oilfield, town and emergency services personnel hands-on training in the necessary procedures to cope with incidents of this type. Information Night showcased an active community with over 30 organizations, groups and agencies filling the Elks Hall with displays, while Crackers the Clown entertained the youngsters with her balloon animals.

County of St. Paul councillors approved the use of flashing green lights on personal vehicles of volunteer firefighters heading to an emergency, and also approved a tender document to be used in purchasing a new county fire truck to be based in Elk Point. Heinsburg Community School students dedicated their annual Terry Fox Run to the memory of Charlie Thomson, after the husband of Grade 1 teacher Connie Thomson lost his fight with cancer on Sept. 9,

New money and new stability for municipalities, to the tune of $11.3 billion over 10 years, was announced by Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing Ray Danyluk when he addressed the 15th Annual Northern Lights Library System Conference. Heinsburg Community School raised the flag on a new school year, with World War II veteran Bill Peyachew raising the flag and drummers adding an honour song

2012

Ten years after her 'North Saskatchewan River Guide - Mountains to Prairies, A Living Landscape' hit the bookstores and the Edmonton Journal's Best Seller list, Elk Point-born author and artist Billie Milholland was back on the trail of discovering additional river lore for another book, "Life in the Shed."

CONSTRUCTION CREWS took advantage of fine fall weather to make headway on town projects, including the widening of 54 Street to accommodate a designated walking lane on the street, reaching south to the elevator ring road.

Library System hosts two-day conference

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Northern Lights Library System returned to a two-day format with this year's annual conference, entitled 'Canada and Libraries as One,' Sept. 14 and 15, after a one-day event in 2016, which organizing committee member Robyn Gray said led to a welcome increase in attendance to 130 library staff and board members from across the region.

NLLS executive director Julie Walker praised her staff, who "don't always see eye to eye but always come together and get things done," for arranging an outstanding conference and thanked the member libraries for their collaboration. "Board members, stakeholders and sponsors, without you there would be no Northern Lights Library System."

The first day of the conference included the library managers' council meeting and informative sessions for board members that told "Everything you wanted to know about library managers" and outlined the basics of trusteeship. Four pre-conference sessions and a keynote address from the Public Services Libraries Branch filled up the afternoon, before a dining event at Wally's Pub and golf at the Elk Point Golf and Country Club.

The second day included a variety of sessions, ranging from utilizing grant funding to the use of computer programs, and from creating audio books to digital storytelling, as well as helpful tips on engaging the community and renovating and decorating the library.

Keynote speaker John Chrastka, executive director of EveryLibrary, a US political action committee for libraries, brought the group "Lessons from the campaign trail on activating activists for libraries," which viewed the librarian as a candidate, seeking the approval of the public and the local governments.

"It's about how librarians are seen in the community when funding is on the line. We don't want to see librarians turn into the tax man," Chrastka said. "A lot of people are out of touch with what librarians and libraries are, they haven't been there since they were kids."

That being said, he felt there is "little correlation between library use and agreement with funding libraries. It's attitude that matters, not the demographics of constituents who are going to support you. Folks with means, and folks with needs are both donating, and the demographics are irrelevant; these are people who will stand with you."

Attitudes, Chrastka said, "are about both nouns: libraries and librarians. The image of the library matters and a passionate librarian who does amazing things is what activates voters to support library funding."

The size of the library and the community is irrelevant, he added. Darby, Montana, population 720, "has the same questions as Santa Clara, California, and the problem is how to keep the library from getting confused with taxes, because we don't usually go door to door with our plan of service. We need to articulate what we're about, go out and meet friendly groups and ask for their support."

"The book is static, it's already written, it's your plan of service. Northern Lights' plan of service shows it's in love with the communities it serves. The vision of your community is the only story you need to tell. We've all gone through the plan of service, what is your personal vision, why do you work here, why do you volunteer? Folks around the community look at you as much as at the institution."

Chrastka advised librarians that endorsements create legitimacy, and suggested they "ask in a different way for endorsement of your plan of service. Even if you feel your funding is stable, get cohorts to stand with you and to say, 'I support what you're doing, how can I help?'" He also spoke of proxies, the coalition of groups with common agendas, "folks you haven't talked to yet. All issues are advanced by coalitions."

Bengals roar into banner year with 34-0 win

I think it's safe to say the Bengals are off to a banner year, having a terrific start to the season, winning the first three games by huge scores.

This past Saturday was no exception when they won again 34 to 0 on the road against Lloydminster Mustangs. It's a little too early to talk about winning the league championship, especially after seeing how the Edmonton Eskimos started the season 6 and 0 and then lost the last four, you know anything can happen, but they are looking really strong and it's partly because of the Elk Point talent that is part of the squad.

'Danny Boy' Cardinal got an off side penalty, then made up for it on the very next play with a huge tackle. Charlie 'Chuckles' Rogal with some big tackles too, including one that would have changed the game early on when he hauled down a receiver that was wide open and would have made the end zone if not for the speed of 'Chuckles'. Team captain Odin 'the Wall' Smith will always be in the middle of the pile. Lineman 'Bazooka Joe' Cardinal and Chayse 'Big Papa' Pankiw were doing some really great blocking for the running backs.

This coming weekend they will play against the other Lloydminster team, the Chargers, at home. Then they have the Thanksgiving weekend off before playing against Bonnyville. The Bonnyville boys have the same 3 and 0 record as the Bengals, but had beaten the Bengals in the pre season Jamboree, so this may be the best team in the league and Bengals biggest test of the year.

Nothing to report for St. Paul Lions, who also have some very talented players from Elk Point, 'Hank the Tank' Rogal, 'Ty Cobb' Smereka and 'Silent Sam' Henderson to name a few, but they have been having problems getting teams to play this year, as some of the teams have moved to a different league and others have had to fold due to lack of players.

Also, there was some really good news for St Paul football last week, they received a cheque for $110,000, grant money to help pay for lights on their field. This will not only allow them to play Friday night under the lights games, and will be good for later practices, but also benefit the track and field club as well. They are still short about $40,000 to $50,000 to complete the job, and the teams are pushing hard to get enough money so to have them up for next season. The teams are still selling their discount cards and other fundraisers so give them a hand if you can.

Baseball highlights

More awesome news from fall ball, Elk Point's awesome Austin 'the Wizard' Stafford allowed only one run, striking out five batters, in four innings pitched this past Sunday when they played a double header against the FX Academy at the Wally Footz field in Edmonton, winning both games.

And still in baseball, a big happy birthday going out to Elk Point Minor Ball president Dennell 'Nelly' Anderson today, she's really done a terrific job of building our minor ball system up and is in the process right now, with some grant money from Baseball Alberta and the Town of Elk Point, of building a brand new diamond for the little mosquitoes, squirt and peewee level players. Dirt work in underway as we speak.

Ice plant fired up

Let's not forget about hockey! The ice plant was fired up yesterday. We will be starting to make the ice, but as usual, there is still lots of clean up work to be done before the start of the season, so come on out and give us a hand.

And now for the K. A. Campbell quote of the week. "Winners never quit and quitters never win." - Vince Lombardi NFL coach.

THE BENGALS present a formidable challenge to the Lloydminster Mustangs, who were no match for the combined talents of the St. Paul and Elk Point players.

Six long and lonely years have passed since we were last together. The happy and special times we shared are gone, but precious memories will always be with us. You will forever be in our hearts, minds, and thoughts.

To us, memories of you will always bring us comfort in remembering the wonderful Mother, Mother-in-law and Grandma you always have been to each of us.

Thank you for always being there to listen when our little dreams didn't come true, for letting us discover what you knew all along, for being our mentor, for the love, fun, and laughter we have shared over the years.

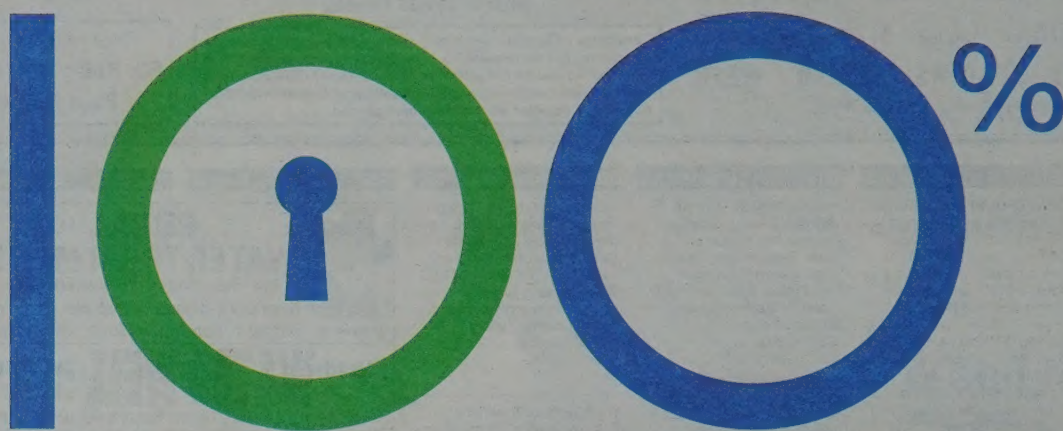

You have always given us so many ways that showed us how much you cared and valued us.

Your cheerful disposition, your beautiful ways of encouraging us, and all you have done for us truly have made us feel so blessed and so proud to have had you.

Life presented you with many challenges and you faced them with dignity, honour and courage. Your talents and abilities were many and, as a homemaker, community volunteer, parent, or friend, you excelled.

A role model to us you will always be.
